FRIDAY EVEN'G, FEBRUARY 7.

THE DOCTOR'S HUSBAND.—A good story, says Don Platt, is told at the expense of a worthy gentleman who happens to be the husband of a doctor's not a hundred miles from the national capital. The female M. D. has an extensive practice, as she deserves to have, for she is learned and skillful in her profession. One night about the witching hour when stars yawn because they are bored, we suppose, a hack dashed up to the doctor's abode, and the good lady was summoned to attend a patient about to add to the population of the United States. The learned lady of the medical persuasion hastily changed her wearing apparel, and when ready her husband, putting his matrimonial feet in slippers and putting an old gown on, accompanied his medical wife down stairs, out at the door to the hack. Putting her into the old vehicle he saw it dash away, and then turned hastily to the door, for the wind of the winter's night was playing old tricks with his slender legs.

To his horror he found the door closed on him and he was cut in the cold without a night key. He rung the bell. He rung the bell till he was hoarse. He pounded on the door, and got for answer the hollow echoes from the inside. He tried kicking, but his slippers did not do more hurt than crick. The servants were citizens of African descent, and when they slept they slept. Our good friend, shivering in the cold, thought himself of the rear entrance. He stole down the alley and clambered over the gate. He mounted an ash barrel, and began forcing open the window of the kitchen, when a shrill voice from the next house screamed for the police.

The poor man tried to explain, but he couldn't get the eye of the speaker; the speaker did nothing but yell; and while making the attempt, the window of the servant's room was opened above, and a shot fired that made him jump and run as if his creditors were after him. Before he got over the gate seven shots were fired from one of those revolvers that made the brider say to the owner of one, "Stranger if you was to shoot me with one of them, and I found it out, I'd kick you all over the country." Of course the neighborhood was aroused. Heads protruded from windows, and all sorts of voices yelled and shouted. Strange to say, a policeman heard the row and arrested the poor man, who, between fear and cold, could make no intelligible explanation.

LEGAL NOTICES.
VIRGINIA.—At Rules held in the Clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Alexandria county, on the 6th day of January, 1879.
James Reynolds and wife, plaintiffs, vs. Charles Davis and others, defendants.
The defendants, William Davis and Julia Davis, his wife, Elizabeth Davis, Kyan H. Davis and Lillie Davis, not having entered their appearance and given security according to the act of Assembly, and the rules of this Court, and it appearing by affidavit that they are not residents of this State, it is ordered that said defendants appear here within one month after due publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit; and that a copy of this order be forthwith inserted in the Alexandria Gazette, a newspaper published in the city of Alexandria, once a week for four successive weeks, and posted at the front door of the Court House of this county.

ESTABLISHED 1800.
Alexandria Gazette
ONE OF THE OLDEST AND BEST ESTABLISHED PAPERS IN THE COUNTRY.
THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.
CIRCULATION STADILY INCREASING—ONE OF THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUMS IN THE STATE.

Alexandria Gazette for 1879.
The ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE began Jan 1st, 1879, as a newspaper that has won its long life by "the survival of the fittest" amid hundreds of journals that have been its contemporaries from time to time during the four score years that its columns have shown "the age and body of the times."
The Gazette aims to be a journal of high character—early in the receipt of news and prompt in giving to its readers the latest advice, foreign and domestic.
Its policy is to do justice without fear, favor or affection; to give honest judgments of public measures and public men; but to trench on the sacred privacy of no man's hearthstone.
It expects to render faithful service to the city, the state and the country by a candid criticism of men and events in the interest of the people of the Commonwealth of Virginia.
With the coming year all the long tried and improved methods of making a standard newspaper will be continued with such additional facilities as past experience justifies the proprietor in believing will add to the capacity of the Gazette to serve its readers.
The news of the National Capital will be carefully looked after. The year 1879 will see the control of both branches of Congress returned to the Democratic Conservative party, and this section of the country, so unjustly dealt with for many years, may look to see fairer measures inaugurated. Since the seat of the Federal government was established in Washington the Gazette has never been without a full representation in the corps of correspondents there, and especial pains will be taken this year that everything of interest, especially such matters as have a special reference to Virginia, shall be promptly and fully reported. The proceedings of the Legislative, Executive or Judicial Department of the Government will find their earliest record in the columns of the Gazette.
Its Richmond correspondences will be unusually attractive—full in everything that concerns our local interests, faithful in all things, trenchant and graphic.
The record of events in the State of Virginia will be fully kept up, but to the intelligence of that section of the Commonwealth which nature has bound to Alexandria by the curvature of its mountains or the courses of its rivers, as well as that portion linked to us by the iron bands of railways, the Gazette will be especially and assiduously devoted.
The Business and Commercial columns of the Gazette will be filled with the earliest and most exact commercial news, edited with such painstaking care as will render an error, where even slight errors are dangerous, impossible.
The Cattle Markets of all the leading points of the world whose rates affect this market will be quoted, and regular statements of the Baltimore, Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria sales of cattle will appear.
The Flour, Grain and Produce movements will be noted daily, and the sales of the Alexandria and neighboring markets given with accuracy and dispatch. The Grocery and other markets will receive constant attention, and the money or stock markets of the country given as to all stocks, &c., which find investors in this section of the country.
To advertise in the Gazette means additional trade. This, experience has proved.
